Android Application Development Steps

Conceptualization

Polishing the app idea into a solid base of the application is the first and most important stage in the development process of the Android application. All the essential groundwork for the following process is laid down at this stage.

Design

In this step, the UI (user interface) designer builds the app's characteristics by keeping in mind the modern user's preference, while the UX (user experience) designer architects the design elements and their interaction.

Development

At this stage, a working prototype is developed to verify the working, assumptions, and understanding of the project scope. If an application has a large perspective, the creation process gets divided into small modules through agile methodology, and the entire android app development process is applicable for each of these small parts.

Testing & Deployment

One of the most significant steps in app development. Applications are often tested for usability, interface & security checks, stress, compatibility, and performance. After getting a satisfying result the app is launched via mobile app stores
